

USA PHILATELIC

THE OFFICIAL SOURCE FOR STAMP ENTHUSIASTS

2014 / Volume 19 / Quarter 4 & Holiday

THE GIFT OF STAMPS

In the 1970s, my Uncle Arthur worked as the supervisor of cancellations for the U.S. Postal Service at its Waterside Mall location in Washington, D.C. At the time, collectors mailed in envelopes with hand-drawn images to be stamp-affixed and postmarked; some would even drop them off in shoeboxes. (This was obviously before Digital Color Postmarks and blank, pre-cancelled First Day Covers came ready to order.)

For the holidays, Arthur and his team would handle tens of thousands of pieces — boxes filled with 500 envelopes each for big stamp dealers, along with small batches of covers for individual collectors. They'd hand cancel some and machine cancel others, taking extra care with delicate or unique pieces.

It was my Uncle Arthur, who stayed with the U.S. Postal Service for more than 30 years, who first introduced me to the wonderful world of stamps.

What I loved about stamps then — what I still love — is that they all carry meaning and value for the people who collect them. The individuals who dropped off those covers in the '70s and those collecting them today all have their own reasons: why acquiring the Legends of the West or the Inverted Jenny was so important, or why that lighthouse or flag stamp was a must-have for their collection.

It's amazing to think that, nearly 50 years later, stamps still have the power to connect us with what we care about, and with each other.

Maybe you and your siblings grew up watching the Rudolph TV special, or your sister loves Julia Child and abides by her cookbooks. Or maybe you're from a creative family that loves art.

Whatever the case may be, I hope these stamps speak to you and your loved ones. After all, 32 years later, stamps continue to bring me joy, and I'm still thankful that my uncle shared the hobby with me.

May your holidays be bright,

Sonja Edison

A self-supporting government enterprise, the U.S.
Postal Service is the only delivery service that reaches every address in the nation, 150 million residences, businesses and Post Office Boxes.
The Postal Service receives no direct support from taxpayers. With 36,000 retail locations and the most frequently visited website in the federal government, the Postal Service relies on the sale of postage, products and services to pay for operating expenses. Named the Most Trusted Government Agency five consecutive years and the sixth Most Trusted Business in the nation by the Ponemon Institute, the Postal Service has annual revenue of more than $68 billion and delivers nearly half the world's mail. If it were a private sector company, the U.S. Postal Service would rank 26th in the 2008
Fortune 500.
